SOCIETY AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

BY C. S. ALBERT.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27. — Society circles in Washington are stirred by the announcement that Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, only daughter of President Ulysses S. Grant, is engaged to be married to Frank H. Jones, who was Assistant Postmaster General during Cleveland's second administration.

Mrs. Sartoris is well known in the Capital, not only in the residential society, in which she was an active and popular figure some thirty years ago, but in official society circles, to which she has been a visitor the past ten years. Mr. Jones is also well remembered in the city, although his official life was brief. He is now secretary of a Chicago bank.

Miss Nellie Wrenshall Grant became the bride of Capt. Algernon Frederic Sartoris, an English army officer, in the White House, May 21, 1874. The pair met on a steamship coming from Europe and a romantic courtship followed. Although opposed at first, President Grant was finally won over by his daughter and consented to the match.

Mr. and Mrs. Sartoris went to England to live and three children were born to them. But the marriage was an unhappy one, and Mrs. Sartoris returned with her children to the United States. A settlement was made upon her by her husband's father.

Her son, Capt. Algernon Sartoris, was married to Miss Germaine Nottelard, of Paris, April 25, 1904, and one daughter, Miss Rosemary, was wedded to George H. Woodston October 29, 1906. Miss Vivian Sartoris, the other daughter, was married to Frederick R. Scovel, August 23, 1902.

Miss Italia Garibaldi, daughter of Gen. Giuseppe Garibaldi, and granddaughter of the "Liberator of Italy," is paying Washington a visit. She is the guest of Mrs. Thomas H. Anderson, wife of Justice Anderson, 1521 New Hampshire avenue northwest. The Garibaldi family is one of the most famous of Italy's great people. From her great-grandfather down to sions herself. Wednesday she was hostess at a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Thomas Taggart, of Indiana, and Mrs. Perry Belmont, the latter going over from Washington for the day to attend. Later the entire party, which also included Mrs. John W. Davis, wife of Congressman Davis of West Virginia, and Mrs. Henry D. Clayton, wife of Congressman Clayton of Alabama, the chairman of the convention committee four years ago, motored out to the Century Club for tea.

Friday evening the Mayor of Baltimore and Mrs. Preston are giving a large reception for 1000 of the convention delegates and their friends and many Washington people are planning to go over for that event.

Mrs. Preston is naturally the ranking hostess of the week, and this function will inaugurate the week's festivities on a magnificent scale. Receiving with Mrs. Preston on this occasion will be wives of several of the party's leaders — Mrs. Norman E. Mack, Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. Perry Belmont, and possibly Mrs. Judson Harmon.

Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the Speaker, who does not expect to attend the convention because of important business transactions which are due to come up in Washington at the time, will, however, attend this function. She will be accompanied by her interesting daughter, Miss Genevieve Clark, and Bennett Clark, their son.

Though Mrs. Clark will not be present at the sessions of the convention, one of the most interested of the spectators in the gallery will be Miss Genevieve Clark. The Speaker's daughter is a keen and enthusiastic politician and a firm believer in her distinguished father's fitness for the Presidential candidacy.

Tuesday afternoon, at the baseball game, when the Speaker was one of the privileged few allowed on the field just in front of the grandstand for the first game in Washington since the meteoric rise of the Nationals to a position of prominence in the league, Bennett was close beside his distinguished father one of the most enthusiastic of fans.

Though there has been little doing in a social way, Washington society has gone baseball mad of late, and in the throng at the big game Tuesday there were many notables much in evidence. The President and Mrs. Taft, accompanied by the Vice President, and the Secretary of State and Mrs. Knox, occupied the Presidential box.

But to get back to the convention at Baltimore—both Washington and Baltimore have capitulated to the charms of Mrs. Anne Hamilton Pitzer, the woman delegate from Colorado, who is to cast her vote for her distinguished brother-in-law, Champ Clark.

Mrs. Pitzer's appearance suggests nothing of the suffragette and, in fact, she decries in her gentle voice, the methods of her militant sisters in the cause in England. She is womanly in every sense of the word and quite the most compelling exponent of their cause the women of Colorado could have chosen to represent them. She is most inordinately proud of her mission, too, and though she has voted many times, she deems this occasion an especial privilege.

Mrs. Underwood, wife of "the gentleman from Alabama," is a well versed and enthusiastic politician and expects to attend the meetings every day. She will have but little time for society as she is anxious to miss not a moment from the doings of the politicians in the big hall, and has already declined numerous invitations proffered her. One of her boys has arrived from school in Alabama and will accompany his mother on her trips back and forth each day.

Mrs. Taft still gives her morning's leisure to a brisk walk downtown in the shopping district, where, very smartly gowned in a light-gray serge tailored suit and a purple straw hat, with a trimming in velvet the same shade, she passed quickly up and down G street yesterday.

Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards and Miss Bessie Edwards have gone to Niagara Falls to join Mrs. Edwards' mother, Mrs. Porter, Brig. Gen Edwards went abroad some weeks ago, and will sail for this country June 28.

Suggested by Senor Don Federico Mejia, the minister from Salvador, a club of the diplomats representing Central America republics, is likely to be formed in Washington. Since the Arlington Hotel was closed last month, the envoys have been without a meeting place in the city.

The Central American diplomats stationed in the city are the following: Senor Don Joaquin Bernardo Calve, Minister from Costa Rica; Senor Don Federico Mejia, Minister from Salvador; Senor Don Salvador Castriello, jr., Minister from Nicaragua; Dr. Pausto Davila, Minister from Honduras, and Senor Don Joaquin Mendez, Minister from Guatemala.
